We create bespoke architecture for clients who value design

We design for discerning client bodies, individuals and niche developers. We collaborate with clients who value bespoke, design led solutions.

Designing contemporary homes, including conversions, refurbishment and retrofit of traditional and listed properties, particularly where significant, modern interventions are proposed.

Our work is rooted in contemporary, purposeful design.

Designing with clarity and precision

Every project is context-driven, sustainably built and cost aware without compromising beauty.

Every site is unique, so we respond thoughtfully to context, ensuring designs are sustainable, site specific and emotionally resonant.

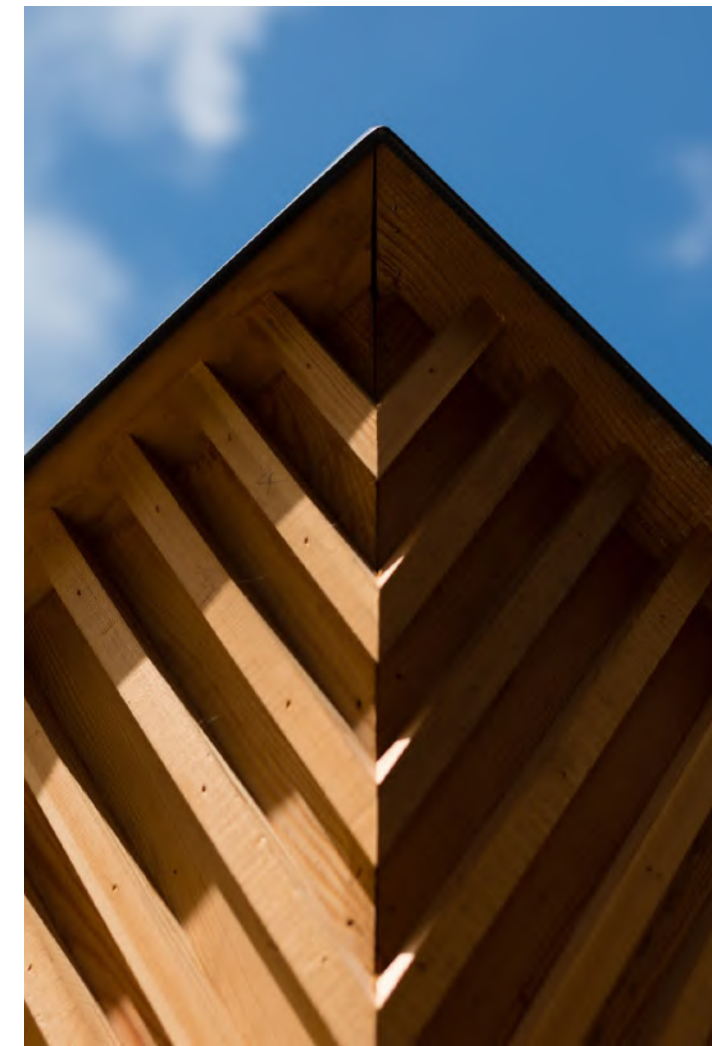

We favour a natural, sustainable material palette and embrace modern methods of construction.

We prioritise aesthetic integrity while seeking construction cost-efficiencies.

We are committed to high quality design and leading project teams in defining and delivering on project programmes.

What We Do

We are architects that like to creatively inspire a brief, always looking for the characterful beauty and opportunity.

We understand that at times the brief needs to be exacting and tightly administered.

We help our clients achieve timeless homes to enjoy daily, in the city and the country.

What Kind of Projects

We work on all aspects of residential architecture including contemporary and traditional 'one off' grand designs, Paragraph 84 houses, estate master planning, luxury apartments, barn conversions, refurbishments, retrofits and extensions.

Who Do We Work For

We are Residential Architects for those that care for what they have and who aspire to develop the opportunity with bespoke design.

We have 20 years of experience working directly with our clients, taking projects from inception to completion, bringing creative talent and providing an old school service.

We aim to make the design and build journey enjoyable for our valued clients, derisking and removing stress points through time tested industry recognised systems.

We work with estate agents and finding agents, to help our clients understand opportunities that are unique and individual to the special opportunities that lie within the fabric of our built environment and its guarding policies.

We work closely with a few select interior designers who bring individuality and personality to a space. We provide interior architecture services to express the essence of architecture and bring character to a space.

Country Life

We have a love of the english countryside and a deep understanding of what makes living within it a special privilege.

We understand our clients lifestyle needs and the enhancing qualities of connecting these to the natural beauty that surround us. Be this a 5 mile view, a kitchen garden or a historic country village or town.

Context

Country living affords space, that needs to be carefully crafted and curated. Good building design, both modern and traditional has a lovely way of conveying the art of human intervention, whilst settling comfortably into a rural context.

Experience

William Green Architects have a wealth of experience designing country houses, barn conversions, farm diversification master plans, retrofits and extensions to suit the discerning needs of contemporary country living.

We have been involved in rich and varied projects that range from 'one off' grand houses designed with modular strawbale construction, beautiful knapped flint walls, sophisticated ashlar stone to more humble honey coloured rubble cotswold stone and ironstone.

We have designed homes, pool houses, home studios and annexes with thatched, slate, stone and clay tile roofs.

We prefer a natural palette of materials and enjoy expressing the inherent qualities of a material by letting them weather naturally into place. We curate the details and care about the mundane, from the sand in the lime mortar, the wood species and grain direction to the copper nails in the slates.

At William Green Architects we enjoy the country life and have a deep understanding of what it takes to create a joyful family home, from where the seasons can be the mark of time.

City Life

The city is where everything comes alive. We love the energy and the buzz. Homes within the city are a sanctuary; a safe haven, providing respite from the fast pace of life.

Context

The city's fabric and its inherent energy are qualities that are lovely to showcase in a home, whether modern or traditional in design.

The basic requirements of natural light, the feeling of space and points of interest are driving qualities within our schemes.

We like to think of framing the context with a picture window over looking roof tops, city scapes or a wisteria clad brick wall.

Experience

William Green Architects have been designing homes within our cities for many years, including, new builds, infill, retrofit, conversions, basements, loft conversions and extensions.

We have created and modernised luxury apartments, mews houses and town houses for our discerning clients.

Creating homes that embrace city living and maximise the valuable opportunities that each plot holds.

We like to push the boundaries and create homes of distinction, enabling family life to proudly function alongside a busy social city life.

Going out, or staying in, work day or play day, our designed homes will be quietly waiting, ready for your needs.

Who would be working with you

William Green
Managing Director

William is a qualified RIBA chartered Architect. He worked in practices in London and Bath, before realising his ambition of starting up his own design practice, establishing William Green Architects in 2007.

Thomas Jarman
Projects Director

After studying architecture, Thomas gained diverse experience working on theatre redevelopments, private schools and projects for the Duchy of Cornwall. Today, Thomas is our Projects Director and has day-to-day responsibility for delivering all client projects.

Gareth Williams
Senior Architectural Technologist

Gareth studied at Sheffield Hallam University and is our Senior Architectural Technologist. He is passionate about the design, production and performance of buildings through the use of technology. This achieves stunning results for our clients.

Jordan Watt
Project Architect

Jordan is a certified Passivhaus Designer with a passion for sustainable architectural design solutions across all project types. He brings extensive knowledge and experience of successfully delivering complex projects, with previous work including delivering high-value developments such as the Oxford Brookes Clive Booth Student Village and the remodelling of the University's Business School.

“We had a brilliant experience with the team. They were lovely to work with, talented, efficient and creative. They helped us get planning permission very quickly.”

– Homeowner, Handy Water House, The Cotswolds

“We cannot recommend William Green Architects highly enough. The thing that we felt, all the way through the project, was that we always had Thomas and William on our side willingly giving us all their guidance to avoid the pitfalls”

CLIENT TESTIMONIALS

“WGA designed a three-storey extension and interior remodelling for our Victorian town house in Oxford. Working with the team was an absolute pleasure. They immediately grasped how we wanted to use the space and generated an imaginative solution, which looks fabulous and is highly practical.”

– Homeowner, Chalfont Road, Oxford

“Working with WGA, they understood our brief immediately and translated it into workable, creative and clever design which brought the property into the 21st century whilst highlighting its period features. They managed to get planning permission approved at the first attempt; quite an achievement with such a large project in the centre of a conservation area.”
